Buffalo Cherry Blossoms Reimagined A Digital Blooming and Virtual Line-Up

The 'reimagined' digital program will feature behind-the-scenes videos of blooms in the garden, a Lockhouse cocktail demonstration, Japanese music, a silent auction to support the garden and more.

Due to State, County and City COVID-19 restrictions on public events and the need for social distancing, the 2020 Buffalo Cherry Blossom Festival has been cancelled.

In reimagining this burst of springtime, the Buffalo Olmsted Parks Conservancy, The Buffalo History Museum and Friends of the Japanese Garden will host a special digital program, on Saturday, May 2nd, that will allow the entire community to enjoy peak blooms from the comfort and safety of their own homes. "That which blooms in adversity, can be the most beautiful gift of all," said Stephanie Crockatt, Conservancy Executive Director. "We are fortunate to have creative, community-thoughtful partners who share a vision to responsibly and innovatively showcase this annual spring display for Buffalo. As good neighbors please watch online for a tranquil, beautiful, ed-Continued on page four.

Grants Support Older Adults and People with Disabilities

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is announcing $955 million in grants from the Administration for Community Living (ACL) to help meet the needs of older adults and people with disabilities as communities implement measures to prevent the spread of COVID-19. The grants will fund home-delivered meals, care services in the home, respite care and other support to families and caregivers, information about and referral to supports, and more. New York is receiving grants totaling

$51,581,796. The Coronavirus Aid, Relief. and Economic Security (CARES) Act was signed into law by President Trump on March 27, 2020. The CARES Act provides supplemental funding for programs authorized by the Older Americans Act of 1965 and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended by the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014. This Day In Buffalo Sabres History

With the snow flying in WNY this week, it brought back memories from January 29th 1977, when the legendary Blizzard of '77 crippled the Buffalo NY area. The Sabres were scheduled to play in Montreal and were lucky to have 14 players make it to the airport (some by snowmobile) to fly to Montreal. Sabres broadcaster Ted Darling was stranded at his home in Lockport and called the game by telephone while watching it on his television set. The shorthanded Sabres came through with a 3-3 tie against the dynastic Montreal Canadiens.

The snow started to fall early in the morning of Friday, January 28th and the winds began to blow at 29 miles and hour with gusts up to 49 mph as the Buffalo Sabres practiced before a scheduled flight to Montreal later that afternoon.

As the cold front reached Buffalo at 11:35 AM, the temperature fell 26 degrees, reaching zero within four hours and the winds now averaged 46 mph with gusts up to 69 mph, creating wind chills of -60° to -70° .

Thousands were stranded in offices, schools and factories as roads became impassable when as much as eight inches of snow fell on top of the 33 inches that had already choked Buffalo that winter. An estimated 13,000 people were stranded in downtown Buffalo alone, along with an estimated 8,000 cars clogging the roads of the city, many of which end-ed up completely buried. Some Sabres employees were forced to sleep overnight in the Sabres home rink "The Aud", among the 300 people who took shelter there.

Six homes were completely destroyed by fire on one block as fire trucks were unable to get through the drifts to reach the fire. A state of emergency was declared in Erie County as well as Niagara, Orleans and Genesee counties as drifts reached 15 feet high by nightfall as the high winds combined with the unusual weather conditions earlier that winter left Lake Erie covered with ice and a layer of snow that was easily picked up by the winds and deposited on shore in Buffalo.

Driving home from practice, Sabres winger Jim Lorentz had to abandon his car and walk the last mile as the snow was now "bumper-high". He did not find his car until three days later.

Gary McAdam had five separate accidents in his new Thunderbird in his attempt to return home. At the scene of the fifth accident, while examining his battered car, another vehicle came sliding toward his, causing McAdam to jump onto the trunk of his car as the sliding vehicle came to a halt against his bumper.

It took Lee Fogolin and Brian Spencer an incredible four hours to make the five-minute drive to their condominium. They were not seen again for three days.

By 3 PM, only 10 players had arrived. As Smith as about to phone Montreal to cancel the game, Jocelyn Guevremont, who had gotten to his four-wheel-drive vehicle by jumping out of a window and shoveling his way to his garage, arrived with four other players, giving Buffalo enough bodies to make the trip.

"On the plane, the stewardesses were hollering at the pilots that we couldn't take off," recalled Don Luce. "I think they tried to turn it around, but all the plane did was blow sideways. Somehow they got it in the air."

Once the game got underway, not surprisingly, the Canadiens broke out on top with a goal from Serge Savard at 17:23 to take a 1-0 lead into the first intermission. It would take Montreal just 35 seconds to extend their lead to 2-0 thanks to a goal by Steve Shutt.

Buffalo would dig in and convert a power play opportunity for their first goal, which came at 6:47 from Andre Savard from team captain Gilbert Perreault and Robert.

Montreal took a 3-1 lead over the undermanned Sabres with Yvon Lambert's goal at 14:47. Still, Buffalo fought back and Luce kept the Sabres in touch with his 14th goal of the season at 15:55 from McAdam and Craig period Ramsay. The would finish that way, with Montreal leading 3-2 despite being outshot by Buffalo 20-14.

For the remainder of the contest, the Sabres and goaltender Gerry Desjardins would keep Montreal's high powered offense at bay. Defenseman Jim Schoenfeld scored at 8:25 to even the score at 3-3.

Schoenfeld's goal would hold up, as the Sabres rallied to limit the Canadiens to just five shots for the third period, to earn the plucky and shorthanded Sabres an unexpected, if not unbelievable, 3-3 tie on this date in 1977 against the Stanley Cup champions, outshooting them by a final margin of 27-19.

The blizzard forced the Sabres to cancel the following night's game in Buffalo against the Los Angeles Kings, a day when the winds continued to howl with gusts up to 52 mph.

Braves of the NBA postponed four of their scheduled home games.

In all, there were 29 storm related deaths in Western New York, 11 of those in the City of Buffalo. Nine of those unfortunate people were found buried in their cars.

In light of the current crisis surrounding COVID-19, the health and safety of Arts Services Initiative's (ASI) patrons, employees, and community are—as always—the organization's highest priority. ASI has been closely monitoring updates and information issued by local, state, and federal governing bodies, and as a result, has decided to reschedule the 7th Annual Spark Awards, originally planned for Wednesday, May 13.

The 7th Annual Spark Awards will now be held on Monday, November 16. 2020 at the Forbes Theatre at 500 Pearl from 6 to 9 PM. Previously purchased tickets will be honored for this new date, and in addition to the regular in-person celebration, ASI is exploring options to add a virtual experience for those who may still be nervous about gathering in person. Of course, this rescheduling and planning assumes that social gatherings are determined safe and permissible at that later date, and ASI will continue to reassess and monitor status updates on COVID-19.

"We want our community to know how grateful we are for your ongoing support of ASI and of Western New York's creative industry," ASI Executive Director Jen Swan-Kilpatrick said. "More than ever, ASI is here to advance, celebrate, and support our region's arts and cultural community, who are among the most economically vulnerable during this challenging time. We hope you all are staying safe and healthy, and we look forward with great excitement to celebrating the incredible achievements and contributions of our 2020 honorees and the remarkable generosity of our sponsors and supporters in November."

Giving Tuesday announced a "Day of Global Action" to be held on May 5, 2020. This is in response to the current COVID-19 crisis. Giving Tuesday, which usually happens the first Tuesday in December, is a national day of giving. Ten Lives Club Cat Rescue will be one of the nonprofits participating. Since January 1, 2020 Ten Lives Club has taken in over 600 cats into their program and they are currently one of the few animal rescue groups in Western New York still taking in cats. They have had to cancel some critical fundraisers that raise money to help the cats in their program and shelter. Sadly, they had to as lay off some of their staff members due to the impact of the pandemic. During Giving Tuesday, people can donate through their website, send in a check by mail, or by credit card over the phone.

Ten Lives Club is a nonprofit whose mission is to "promote, further, and enhance all cat life." Since 2001, they have saved over 35,000 cats through adoptions or assisting in some way. They have a small paid staff and are the second largest rescue in Western NY, next to the SPCA. They have over 200 volunteers to help run their organization and 10,000+ supporters. For more information on how to adopt or donate, visit their website at www.tenlivesclub. com or call them at 716-646-5577. Donations can be dropped off or mailed to the Ten Lives Club Main Shelter located at 3741 Lake Shore Road,

Buffalo Cherry Blossoms Reimagined

The 'reimagined' digital program will feature behind-the-scenes videos of blooms in the garden, a Lockhouse cocktail demonstration, Japanese music, a silent auction to support the garden and more. Stay tuned to the Cherry Blossoms Reimagined Facebook event for the schedule's full line-up.

"The "Hanami" or "flower-viewing" season has assuredly arrived," said Melissa Brown,

Executive Director of The Buffalo History Museum. "And community safety requires imaginative, alternate ways to soak in these long-awaited pops of pink. From participating in a fully virtual silent auction, to viewing videos of the beautiful blossoms, and posting blossom-inspired crafts from the comfort of home-I encourage you to get creative and engage in this flower-viewing season with us."

Special thanks to our generous and steadfast supporters for sharing in this digital blooming (in alphabetical order): AXA Advisors, Lockhouse Distillery, Music is Art, The Buffalo History Museum, and Seneca Resorts & Casinos.

A special reimagined opportunity to support care for the Japanese Garden will be announced on Thursday, April 30th.

Ask Rusty – Can My Husband Get A Spouse Benefit from Me?

Dear Rusty: I'm wondering if my husband can submit a "restricted application for spousal benefits only." He is 76 years old, has been receiving his benefit since 2005. His present benefit is $263.50. I am 74 years old, receiving my benefit since 2007. My present benefit is $931. Am I to understand that he could be receiving half of my amount rather than his smaller amount? Signed: Inquiring Wife

Dear Inquiring Wife: Your husband isn't eligible to file a "restricted application for spousal benefits only" because he is already collecting his own Social Security benefits and because he is past 70 years of age. But he should probably be receiving a spousal benefit from you because his benefit is so much lower than yours. From what you've written, you both claimed your Social Security benefits when you were 62 years of age. That means you both took a 25% cut in benefits from what you would have gotten at your full retirement age (FRA) of 66.

Spousal benefits are based upon FRA benefit amounts, even if you claimed benefits earlier. So, since your FRA benefit amount would have been about $1164 and your husband's FRA benefit would have been about $330, by my calculations he should now be receiving a spousal benefit of about $516 instead of his benefit of $263.50. The computation for that is: Take half of your FRA benefit amount ($582) minus your husband's benefit amount FRA ($330); the difference ($252) is added to his own current benefit ($264) to get $516 as his possible spousal benefit (note the actual numbers from SS may vary somewhat). This probably means that when you claimed your benefit two years after your husband claimed his, your husband didn't apply for his spousal benefit (and it wasn't awarded automatically by SS).

I suggest your husband contact Social Security as soon as possible and make an appointment to apply for his spousal benefits. Since he has been entitled to that benefit for some time now, he can also request 6 months of retroactive spousal benefits which they will pay in a lump-sum and adjust his monthly benefit to what he is entitled to as your spouse. There is also a possibility that, when you filed, SS failed to notify your husband he was eligible for a spouse benefit, in which case he may be able to collect his spouse benefit back to the date he became eligible. Your husband should contact Social Security directly at either 1.800.772-1213, or at your local office (find it at www.ssa.gov/locator) to make an appointment to apply for his spousal benefit from you. And, usually, this application can be accomplished over the phone.

Please note that all of the above assumes that your husband's current benefit isn't being reduced due to a non-covered pension which causes the Windfall Elimination Provision (WEP) to lower his benefit amount, and which would cause the Government Pension Offset (GPO) to severely alter, or even eliminate, his spousal benefit. for information purposes only and does not represent legal or financial guidance. CARES Act Grants Support Older Adults and People with Disabilities community-based organizations, such as Area Agencies on Aging, Centers for Independent Living, senior centers, faithbased organizations, and other non-profits provide a vast array of resources and services to help older adults and people with disabilities stay healthy and live independently in their communities across the United States.

The need for these services has increased as community measures to slow transmission of COVID-19 have closed locations where many people typically receive services and made it difficult for families to assist loved ones who live alone. In addition, the adaptations necessary to provide these services in the current environment have increased costs to service providers.

"This nearly $1 billion in new funds will help communities support older adults and people of all ages with disabilities in staying healthy, safe, and independent during the COVID-19 pandemic," said HHS Secretary Alex Azar. "The new funding secured by President Trump from Congress is a historic boost to programs that support community living for all people, representing an increase of over 40 percent in this year's funding for ACL's programs. The aging and disability networks supported by these programs are delivering meals, ensuring safe transitions home following hospitalizations, and providing other essential services to older Americans and Americans with disabilities during this challenging time, and HHS will continue supporting these partners and the Americans they serve throughout this crisis." The CARES Act funding to New York includes:

$11,727,682 for Home and Community Based Services (HCBS), which will help greater numbers of older adults shelter in place to minimize their exposure to COVID-19. These include personal care assistance, help with household chores and grocery shopping, transportation to essential services (such as grocery stores, banks, or doctors) when necessary, and case management.

$28,146,437 for home-delivered meals for older adults. With this funding, states can also expand "drive-through" or "grab-and-go" meals for older adults who typically would participate in meal programs at community centers and other locations that have been closed due to social distancing measures.

$4,301,871 for Centers for Independent Living to provide direct and immediate support and services to individuals with disabilities who are experiencing disruptions to their independent, community-based living due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Services will ensure individuals with disabilities have the supports they need to safely stay in their homes or return home after a hospitalization or institutionalization during (and directly after) COVID-19.

$286,320 for nutrition and related services for Native American Programs distributed to tribal organizations located in the state to help provide meals and supportive services directly to Native American elders. $5,946,718 for the National Family Caregiver Support Program to expand a range of services that help family and informal caregivers provide support for their loved ones at home. These include counseling, respite care, training, and connecting people to information.

$1,172,768 to support State Long-term Care Ombudsman programs in providing consumer advocacy services for residents of long-term care facilities across the country. Restrictions on visitation have significantly increased demand for ombudsman services, as families seek assistance in ensuring the well-being of their loved ones.

Ombudsman programs will seek to expand their virtual presence to residents and their families, and continue to promote the health, safety welfare, and rights of residents in the context of COVID-19. This funding will give Ombudsman programs the flexibility to hire additional staff and purchase additional technology, associated hardware, and personal protective equipment once in-person visits resume.

Additionally, $50 million for Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRCs) will be divided among and distributed to states and territories by the end of April. This allocation will fund programs that both connect people at greatest risk to COVID-19 to services needed to practice social distancing and seek to mitigate issues created by it, such as social isolation. ADRCs across the country are reporting unprecedented demand for assistance with applications for services, care coordination, services that support people in returning home following hospitalization, and the like.

"Area Agencies on Aging, Centers for Independent Living, and other community-based organizations are working hard to expand capacity to meet the needs of older adults and people with disabilities during this extraordinary time," said ACL Administrator Lance Robertson. "These additional funds will allow for an incredible response at the state and local level to meet the needs of people who are facing some of the greatest risks during the COVID-19 emergency.'

Nationwide, $905 million is being awarded today to states, territories, and tribes for subsequent allocation to local service providers. Grant amounts are determined based on the formulas defined under the program authorizing statutes. The remaining $50 million for ADRCs will be awarded by the close of April.

Older adults who need assistance can contact the Eldercare Locator to find services available in their community. The Eldercare Locator tollfree number is 1-800-677-1116 or you can visit https://eldercare.acl.gov/.

People with disabilities can find their local Center for Independent Living at https://www. ilru.org/projects/cil-net/ cil-center-and-association-directory. In addition, the Eldercare Locator can help people with disabilities find their local Aging and Disability Resource Center.

PRAYER TO ST. JUDE Most holy apostle St. Jude Thaddeus faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered your beloved Master in to the hands of the enemies has caused you to be forgotten by many, but the Church honors and invokes you universally as the patron of hopeless cases and of things despaired of. Pray for me who am so needy; make use, I implore you of that particular privilege accorded to you to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolations and succor of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings particularly (here mention your petition) ... and that I may bless God with you and all the elect throughout eternity. I promise you, O blessed Jude to be ever mindful of this great favor, and I will never cease to honor you as my special and powerful patron and to do all in my power to encourage devotion to you. Amen. M.S.
